

Dear Supporters of Lambton Right to Life:

We have celebrated with gratitude the many blessings of living in Canada, but the great tragedy of approximately 100,000 abortions per year continues to shame our country.

When was I not a Person?

Oh Canada!

Since 1988, induced abortion has been available on-demand through all nine months of pregnancy up to the moment of delivery for any or no reason.

The fight for legal personhood for the pre-born child is one of the most important human rights issues of our time.

Political ideology and convoluted jurisprudence should not permit the continued discrimination towards the youngest member of the human family.

On June 30, 2016, The National Post published an article by Michelle Hauser entitled: Pro-life debates, with a sci-fi twist. The author wrote that “advancements in neonatal medicine are pushing the envelope of fetal viability well beyond what anyone ever imagined.” She noted that in Canada, there were 605 late-term abortions performed on unborn children at 21 weeks’ gestation or more...

With changes in fetal viability and other developments, “Head-in-sand will no longer be an option for any government or its electorate. Medicine is advancing too quickly. How remarkable it will be when science forces us to have a debate that politics had apparently put to rest.”

This article is definitely worth sharing with others. The link is:

Here’s another important link showing medical animations of abortion from the unborn child’s perspective: <http://www.abortionprocedures.com/>

Live Action prepared these animations with the help of former abortionist, Dr. Anthony Levantino. (WARNING: No blood is shown but the information is very disturbing.)

May we never cease to insist that our country protect the right to life of all Canadians.
